The Reboux Sailor Which Is Almost Brimless in Front

Pierrot Pompons of Clipped Ostrich

Although the curious shape of this 'sailor's brim gives it distinction, this model introduces another idea of equal importance—the banding of Milan hemp around the crown. This band gives the effect of a trimming, and yet it is a part of the hat's structure, for it is entirely composed of this new Milan hemp.

Our Reproduction of this Paris model is $6.75-untrimmed. In bottle green, tete de negre, beet-top red, patrol blue, linen color and black.

The Pierrot Pompone, which are now the craze of Paris, are the most effective trimming for this sailor. Nevertheless, they are also worn on the new jet hats. In white, brown, green and black at $1 each.

The No-charge Trimming Service will make the hat that is illustrated, or will trim any other untrimmed hat whose trimmings are purchased in our Millinery Sections.

The New Nemo Corset Is Long, Flat and Comfortable in the Back

Women have yearned for a Corset that would give them a tlat back, in spite of their hips.

Corsetleres have endeavored to design such an ideal model. But the creator of the Nemo Corset did not work in vain, for he realized that the result could never be attained with mere coutil and bones. His new model has proven that he was right.

The bones and the coutil in this new Nemo Corset extend to a normal length in the back, and below that bands of Lastikops Webbing are inserted—and through these the lacing of the corset is continued so that there will be no break in the line. The illustration shows this portion of the corset.

As this new Corset has the improved self-reducing front, with the partially separate skirt that follows the principle used in the back, it is called the

The White Sale Presents: FRENCH Lingerie at Paris Prices

Indeed, one would have to scurry about Paris to find semi-circular drawers of quite fine lingerie cloth, with hand-scalloped edges, at 50c, or a chemise for the same amount—which would be 2 francs 50 cent. And we doubt if our sets of matched lingerie, trimmed with beautiful real laces, could be purchased in Paris for less than
